Plans Still Indefinite For Northern Air Training Base

LAC LA BICHE — Plans for a $28,000,000 air training centre for the Lac la Biche district are still indefinite, with conflicting reports being made on the future of the proposed project.

Recently J. Dechene, MP for Athabaska, said in a letter to the local Board of Trade that there has been no intention of locating the base here.

This week, however, Hon. Geo. Prudham, federal minister of mines and technical surveys, said an air force gunnery and range school would be constructed in the district.

It has been reported that surveys are being made of district north of Bonnyville with the idea of building a base for jet-propelled planes.

According to officers of the Board of Trade, Lac la Biche would provide a better place for intercepting possible enemey planes than would any other place in the north.

The Board of Trade notes that Lac la Biche is almost due north of Edmonton, and such geophysical position is of importance in the location of such a site.

The Lac la Biche Board of Trade is seeking the support of Edmon- City Council in the matter.

Hail Insurance

A good example of co-operation among farmers for the common good is the work of the Alberta Hail Insurance Board. For only $5.00 down payment any farmer can get his 1951 crop insured against loss by hail—anytime before the hail strikes. Up to the first of July 15,000 Alberta farmers had done this. The small premium each farmer finally pays, when the crop is completed, is as nothing compared to his losses if hail strikes.

Of the 15,000 farmers co-operating perhaps 3,000 will witness hail damage to their crops. Without hail insurance such hail damage would be a calamity to the farmer and his family. But the hail insurance premium is no calamity. Heavy hail loss would lower the individual's standard of living pitifully for a full year, but the insurance premium represents no loss to his living standards.

We believe not only in hail insurance but over-all crop insurance. The sooner farmers are protected by full crop coverage, the sooner our Western farm economy will be on a surer and safer footing.

Rental Fee--For What?

Farmers in the Avenir district, 16 or more miles north-east of Plamondon, have a peculiar situation on their hands. At the conclusion of World War II a number of new settlers moved into this area which was not surveyed and had no roads except the trails made by the settlers themselves. But the land looked good and in the true spirit of the pioneer, these hardy folk ventured forth and "squatted" on the land. The Government took no notice of them, gave them nothing.

That was in 1945. Comes 1951. The Provincial Government steps in and assesses these people $1.25 per year for each cultivated acre, plus 8% of their crops starting with the current crop year.

This is the same Government that is spending thousands of dollars to bring immigrants to Alberta, the same administration that is opening up huge areas in the remote districts bordering the North-West Territories. Laudable as these projects are, isn't it just a little small-minded and vindictive to penalize people who have stepped out on their own, and without the use of public funds, opened up new tracts of land for settlement?

We submit that the areas occupied by the Avenir farmers be declared homestead land and when they've met the terms of homesteading, that they be given title for a fee of $5.00 per quarter section. To do otherwise is to deny a declared principle of Social Credit—free enterprise.

Great Promises

The defeat of the Liberal candidate in the by-election in the Brandon, Manitoba, constituency is being attributed by some daily newspapers to the Canadian government's grain marketing policy. It is difficult to say to what extent this is so. Supporters of the open market have, for several years now, conducted a most intensive campaign in an effort to prove that the Wheat Board's operations have resulted in losses of hundreds of millions of dollars to the wheat producers. The extent and persistency of such a campaign may have results.

It is quite possible that opponents of the Wheat Board may succeed in destroying that organization and in restoring the speculative system of grain marketing. In that event the speculative market will have to live up to the roseate picture now being presented by its supporters. It will be most interesting to see then what will happen.

Note and Comment

"The King and I" (with apologies to the Motion Picture of the same name) had a working arrangement on writing checks. We used our signature and His Majesty's picture on a 3c stamp. Often we've thought how nice it would be if we could use The King's signature in place of his picture. Now we have Sir Robert L. Borden's picture on the 3c stamp to grace our check writing efforts, and with all due respect to the late Prime Minister we don't find the check writing experience any more painless or inspiring than with The King.

Case of The Headless Duckling

By T. W. PUE

This mystery of robbery and murder made its imprint on my conscious mind as I drove along highway thirteen, westward bound, within three miles of Daysland. I could see the tops of the Daysland elevators from a rise in the highway and then they disappeared from view as my Morris Minor reached the bottom of a depression in the road. At that point I met the distressed mother, pacing frantically back and forth across the road.

T. W. PUE

At this time of year it is not unusual to see a female duck on or near the road, with little balls of peeping fluff running after her. But this duck was alone and obviously in distress so I pulled up sharply at the side of the road and then she flew away. The roadway was dry and I could see no water on either side of the road. Not a good place for ducks. Mother duck tried to mislead me by flying a circuitous route away from the highway scene. She flew low across the fence, and then acted as though she was wounded and unable to fly. She wanted me to chase her, instead of looking for her nest, but I walked to the other side of the road and as I approached the tall grass noticed a movement among the weeds. Almost in the same instant I came upon the duck's nest and spied the black and white marauder—an old house cat slinking and then bounding away.

That murder had been done, there was no doubt. In the nest was the headless and still warm body of a baby duckling, that couldn't have been hatched for more than 24 hours. There were no other ducklings in the nest and no unhatched eggs. Just empty egg shells.

The cat got away easily without leaving any paw prints and with no witnesses other than the mother duck to the crime. The murdering cat has been seen but unidentified. Mother duck was left to return to her empty and unhappy home beside the road, and in true duck logic weigh the advantages and disadvantages of building a nest in future so near to farm homes that harbor cats.

Reconstructing the whole story, I would say it went something like this: The Mother duck of our story is an independent female that can't stand to have other women in her neighborhood, and rather than set up housekeeping near a pond or slough where the other ducks go, she went off to the busy highway and settled near the water-filled cut-away at the side of the road. She built her nest, and for 23½ hours per day kept constant vigil on the pretty little eggs which she laid, one a day. for six days. Every afternoon she left her unborn family for 30 minutes' swimming, eating and drinking at the side of her nest until the eggs began to hatch.

A week ago the water dried up completely and she had to fly over the bushes to the pond where the other ducks were. That was the day the first egg stirred beneath her wing and the first peep-peep sounded from the otherwise still and lifeless eggs. That evening, duckling number one broke his shell, and with his wet feathers snuggled closer to his mother's warm body. Then the murderer appeared on the scene.

Mr. Cat may have been casing the joint all along, without disturbing the tenant of the house. But this day he thoroughly frightened poor Mrs. Duck, who tried, in vain, to lure him away from her nest by flying across the road and flopping around like an injured bird and an easy prey. Mr. Cat callously disregarded her frightened and anguished pleas and first murdered the helpless duckling, and then stole the warm little body.

When the disturbance was over, Mrs. Duck returned to her nest and next day hatched out egg Number 2, with the same sequence of events. The murder and robbery was repeated every day until there were no more eggs and no more ducklings left.

Conclusion: If duck hunters would do a little cat shooting in springtime there would be more ducks to hunt in the fall.

An Issue For Calgary West?

(From Calgary Albertan)

At last the Conservatives have handed in to the Speaker of the House of Commons the resignation of A. L. Smith, the member for Calgary West. Mr. Drew's excuse that he hoped to persuade Mr. Smith to withdraw his resignation doesn't fool anybody. When Mr. Smith says something he means it. When he signed his resignation last February that was final.

Gerald Waring, press gallery representative for the Victoria Colonist, says "nobody has been able to figure out the P.C.'s. strategy in holding back the resignation . . . The people of Calgary West have a legitimate grievance against the P.C.'s. As one member of the Commons told me, 'I would just love to contest that by-election, and I'd fight it on the grounds that the P.C.'s disfranchised the people of Calgary West.'"

The world today is a tinder-keg, and the oil crisis in Iran could easily set off another war even as peace negotiations in Korea are being carried on.

TAX COW MOOS

Dear Sir—Do the Government boys stay up nights figuring up new ways to milk the public? This income tax was high enough, now they add 20%. They make you pay interest, yet pay no interest on your own money they withhold. Will we have to pay income tax on old age pensions? On the checks it says return check to the Government if pensioner is deceased. Why shouldn't the check go to his estate? Many of us don't have hair to comb. but how about taxing complaints on the taxes from us old tax cows?

WAY OF A MOTHER

Dear Sir—It is tragic indeed, the case of that beautiful young Southern girl who is doomed by cancer, and is being deprived of the "man" she loves but who was cowed and dominated by his mother into breaking off with her. Why are men—and girls. too—such cowards because of Hitlerite mothers? I am in love and always will be in love with a girl who loves me. But she is dominated by a neurotic mother who hates to see her own daughter even talk to men. Why should old tyrants be permitted to ruin young lives?

HITLER'S NEW HANGOUT?

Dear Sir—A recent writer in another paper said there was no positive evidence of Hitler's death. I will go further: I believe Hitler is very much alive. Not only that, I have seen circumstantial evidence that he is not only alive but in the Kremlin right now, doing some expert plotting with his pal Joe.

Violet Jacobson And Alex Rakach Win Division Awards

THORHILD—Violet Jacobson, a Grade XI student, won the highest girls' academic award of the Thorhild High School, having scored an average of 83.1 per cent in the non-departmental subjects. Two years ago Violet won the Governor-General's Medal for the highest Grade IX standing in the Thorhild Division.

Alec Rakach, also a Grade XI student, won the highest boys' academic award with an average of 82 per cent.

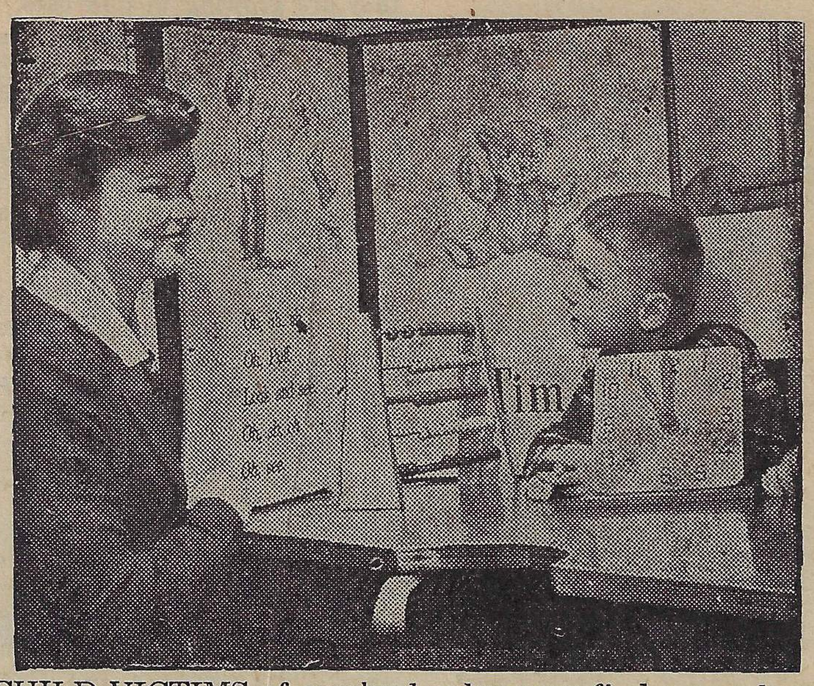

The two trophies are two individual cups, donated by Mr. Steve Stroich, general merchant of the Village of Thorhild.

The Thorhild population increased by two last week, when Mike and Mary Chamara became the parents of twins — boys.

Ronald Radomsky was rushed to the hospital as a result of a smash-up which occurred while in a truck five miles south of Thorhild. The truck was owned by Steve Brygadyr and driven by his son, Ernest. Along with Ernest and Ronald were Joe Gutek, Edward Samoil and Alois Zariuny. Radomsky was rushed to Radway Hospital, where he received medical treatment. The others received slight bruises .

DWERNYCHUK SUCCEEDS MARICLE ON FARM UNION CENTRAL BOARD

SMOKY LAKE — George Dwernychuk of Smoky Lake has been elected to replace F. E. Maricle of Hamlin, alleged Communist sympathizer, on the FUA central board.

The action came at a Farmers' Union of Alberta district convention in St. Paul.

Ralph Steinhauer, Brosseau, was elected president and official director of district No. 7, succeeding Daniel Gamache, St. Paul. Mrs. Ralph Steinhauer, was named womens' director for the district.

More than 125 registered delegates attended the convention and, according to observers, took a definite stand in opposition to alleged leftist elements in the FUA ranks.

Attempts were made last year to oust Mr. Maricle from the board for alleged Communist sympathies. He attended the 1950 Communist - sponsored Warsaw peace conference.

Ray Garneau, of Wainwright, earlier in the week lost his seat on the board to James Jackson, Irma, at a convention at Vermilion. Following the allegations last year three FUA officers resigned in protest over the lack of action by the board on the issue.

SPEDDEN DISTRICT BRIEFS

SPEDDON — Mr. Jim Wier who has been a resident of Ashmont, Alta., for quite a few years was in Spedden over the week-end. He was a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. N. McRae.

Kenneth McRae is expected to leave Spedden. He is going to Devon where he will be visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jones.

Miss Zennia Landick who is working in the city returned home to visit her parents and friends at Spedden.

We are sorry to hear of the accident which happened around here over the week-end. Harvey Minnie of Andrew was in serious condition. Margaret and Kenneth McRae who were passengers in the truck escaped injuries. We all hope Harvey a speedy recovery. He has been sent to an Edmonton hospital.

Wainwright Military Camp Mushrooms As 4,000 Soldiers Occupy 'Canvas City'

With the arrival of about 4,000 soldiers from many parts of Canada completed, Wainwright Military Camp in north-east Alberta is virtually a "canvas city" surrounded by over 130,000 acres of ideal training areas.

In a matter of six weeks 740 marquees and bell tents have blossomed in tent-lines adjacent to the existing 75 buildings which formerly housed a training centre and later prisoners-of-war. Regimental kitchens, messes, canteens and offices as well as the soldiers' living quarters are located in the long lines of marquees. Each marquee accommodates 16 soldiers.

From the time bulldozers first started to level ground for the tent floor boards the gigantic task of creating the tented camp has been a rush priority for sappers of the Royal Canadian Engineers. In short order they put in 8,000 feet of main water lines, over eight miles of branch water pipe, and over 4,000 water taps. In the cook tents, 22 marquees, they installed 88 propane stoves as well as water heaters.

LIGHTS LINE ROADS

Street lights line the roads of Wainwright canvas camp and every tent is well lighted so that when troops return from the field and their "training like mad" programs they find al the amenities.

According to Brigadier W. J. Megill, officer commanding the camp and commander 25 Canadian Infantry Brigade Replacement Group, "Training area and facilities here are second-to-none and everything is being rushed to see that after-duty hours will be equally as good".

The new tent-lines are a temporary measure. In the fields next to the regimental lines three contracting firms and the army sappers are raising permanent and semi-permanent buildings which when completed this fall will be able to house and train the full complement of training troops.

At present 67 buildings are under construction ranging from quonset type "H" huts to steel and frame drill halls and recreation buildings. The present construction plan calls for completion by 15 September. More will be added next year.

According to Major A. S. Millen of Chilliwack, commander 19 Works Company, RCE, permanently stationed there, there are about 300 civilians working with his soldier crews in addition to the 250 civilians employed by contracting firms. During the coming summer a peak of about 1,000 civilian tradesmen will be reached.

BIG PROJECTS

In addition to the 67 buildings, 70 hour work-weeks from now until the snow flies will account for such items as 78,000 square yards of tarnac paving on the roads and drill squares in the camp area, a central refrigeration plant of 48,000 cubic feet storage, 48 miles of new gravel roads into training areas, an enclosed swimming pool, ordnance and army service corps storage and distribution centres, and seven new firing ranges for rifle, pistol, and small automatic weapons.

One of the major tasks to be undertaken this vear will be the weir damming of the Battle River as a campwater source. From here water is to be pumped into Betty Lake, the main reservoir for the future. As double water-insurance, three wells have been drilled for present use and future emergncy.

To add to the military community plans are now on R.C.E. drafting boards in Edmonton for the rapid construction of a theatre, camp canteen and bowling alley. They will be located near the two hangar-size gymnasiums now under construction.

During past years used by reserve troops as a mess and sleeping quarters, the camp hospital is now fully remodelled and re-equipped as a 100-bed establishment capable of all types of treatment and operations.

According to present plans immediate and proposed construction will total over 170 buildings of all types with a possibility of more being added in years to come.

Active force units now in Wainwright include: Headquarters 25 Canadian Infantry Brigade Replacement Group; 3rd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal 22nd Regiment, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; Holding Establishments for the regiments; Royal Canadian Horse Artillery; Lord Strathcona's Horse; 23 Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers; and service units of the medicals, ordnance, signals, army service corps, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, dental, and provost.

Last Indian to Take Part In Sun Dance Ritual Dies

CARDSTON, Alta. — (BUP) — The last of the Blood Indians who took part in the tribe's cruel Sun Dance ritual has gone to the happy hunting grounds.

Heavy Head, an 83-year-old Blood, who once scouted for the Standoff detachment of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, died in a Cardston hospital.

He was the last surviving member of the tribe to bear the marks of the Sun Dance on both his breasts and back. The ceremony which left the scars was held in 1889, before police stopped the practice.

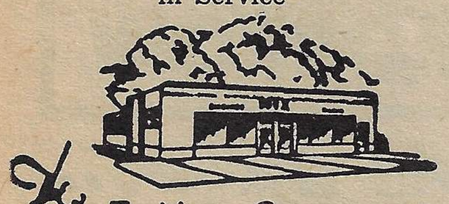

In the dance, young braves adorned themselves with sagebrush and inserted small cherrywood skewers in their breasts. Rawhide thongs led from the skewers to the sacrificial pole and the braves tried to tear them loose as they danced.

Some had to dance twice before they broke away.

Before and after the ceremony, the Indians fasted and prayed in seclusion, with relatives bringing them only water and encouragement.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Finds Sixteen-Year-Olds Demonstrations Distastetul

Dear Louisa:

I am the mother of a high school girl and I try to be progressive and keep up with the times.

However, it seems to me that the girls and boys of the present time are entirely too free with each other and to put it mildly, do things that are in extremely bad taste even if no moral issues were involved.

My daughter, who is sixteen, goes with one boy all of the time. They come out of the school building with arms around each other and kissing each other goodbye means absolutely nothing.

Am I wrong or am I right?

MOTHER.

Answer:

I agree with you that it cheapens a girl to be pawed over. And it certainly doesn't help her reputation when she allows these liberties in public.

If a boy is very much in love with a girl, it seems to me that he should be very careful to protest her good name and do nothing to make people think less of her.

When a boy insists on taking liberties in public, it is usually not because he is so much in love but because he is conceited and anxious for people to see how crazy the girl is about him.

The least that can be said for him is that he is thoughtless and selfish.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am engaged to a boy who seems to be a fine fellow in lots of ways but he has one fault that worries me very much. He will say rude things to me and he seems to think it a sign of superiority to put me in my place. He always says such things when we are with other people but is very polite and courteous when we are alone.

I suppose he wishes to sound sophisticated and smart but I am sure other people like him less when he acts like this.

I am thinking of breaking my engagement because of this. Do you think it would be wise?

A. L.

Answer:

Why don't you talk to him about it? Perhaps he doesn't realize how he sounds to other people when he is "showing off." Some people try to cover up their timidity or lack of confidence in themselves by being rude but, although they mean no harm, it is tough on the other fellow.

If he doesn't turn over a new leaf, I'd think a long time, if I were you, before I married him. I shouldn't care to live with a man who was careless about hurting my feelings.

LOUISA.

Brighton School Is Permanently Closed

WASKATENAU — Brighton School has been declared closed. A bus will take the children elsewhere for their education, and in a few years even the name will lose meaning without the school to keep it alive.

The first settler in the district was Clark E. Allen, who filed on his homestead in 1906. Mr. Allen came from Ontario and the next decade saw most of the homesteads taken up by men from Ontario, U.S., Holland, Finland, and Russia.

The first post office, called Smoky Lake Centre, was placed in charge of Wm. Robinson in 1913. Later it was in charge of Guy Lloyd, and still later of Ed. Powell.

In 1919 the railroad was built and the post office was moved to the hamlet growing up to the east. Mr. Powell was asked to name the post office in its new location, and chose Warspite in honor of his son, who was serving on the battleship of that name.

The homesteaders found it inconvenient to go to Warspite for the mail, so a sub-post office was placed in the home of Jack Grey. It was known as Dongrey P.O. When Mr. Grey's home was destroyed by fire, the P.O. was taken by Bert Hegi, who kept it until 1925, when it was closed, the roads to the hamlets of Waskatenau and Warspite having greatly improved.

Meanwhile, a school, named for the famous resort in England because of its proixmity to the Smoky Lake, had been built in 1916. The first teacher was Mr. Fred Pennock. During the first years, school was in session only during the five summer months, providing employment for University students during their vacation.

A dance, the first of many, was held in the school upon its completion, where Ed. Whitson, dressed as a hobo, made so many successful "touches" that he collected a sizable sum for the Red Cross.

The large and ambitious families of the settlers soon filled the little school to overflowing, and a second room was added, while a barn was built to accommodate twenty horses.

Secondary education flourished under such five teachers as Jean Warr, Nora Brown, Emily Lawrence, Alex. Rosenthal and others.

The Christmas concerts were delightful. A grade nine student won a medal, while year after year, pupils won the scholarships for the School Fair.

Gradually, the pioneers sold out, and large farms became the fashion, with the resulting drop in population. The senior room was closed, the school enrollment dwindled until last year there were only twelve pupils, and another vacant school will be left standing sadly by the road:

"The door's worn sill betraying
The feet, that creeping slow to school
Went storming out to playing."

In 1951 the Canadian dollar has about one-third of its 1901 buying power; in the same period hourly wage rates have multiplied by five.

How about taking the family out to supper tonight? Give them all a treat, even Mom. Take them to Fil's, the food is so tasty and delicious that it melts in your mouth. Make that date pretty soon, too.

NEW FIREHALL NEARING COMPLETION AT WASKATENAU

WASKATENAU—New firehall in the village is nearing completion and the hall will include a small room to be used as the village office.

Built of tile brick, the building has a fireproof roof. Besides the office space, another small room will house a pressure pump.

A fire truck is to be purchased and, while the village has been fortunate in regard to fires, the new equipment and hall are a further safeguard.

WASKATENAU.— Possibility of joining the school division still is being considered and a meeting of ratepayers will be called in the near future.

Good Job

He had managed to get a job as collector for the Gas Board.

"Take this master key and go around and empty all the coin boxes; get all the money," said the manager.

He was gone for three weeks. Then he walked into the office and announced: "Can I have another key, I've lost t'other one."

"Certainly," replied the manager. "But where have you been all this time? The cashier has stopped late every night expecting you to come for your wages."

"Gee!" exclaimed the man, beaming, "do I get wages as well?"
